An Tostal Farm is a family farm in Post Falls, ID that raises lamb. The trailer is used at local fairs and events to promote the farm.

The trailer has two windows for placing and picking up orders, a prep-space with the amenities of a small commercial kitchen, and a grill and fryer that are located on an outdoor deck to show that the food is prepared fresh as well as eliminate the need for a fire suppression system inside the trailer.

The trailer frame was constructed by Eagle in Rathdrum, ID. Other installations, such as electrical and plumbing, were done in house by An Tostal Farm. Graphics by Mallory Fair, produced and applied by Mountain Dog Signs in Spokane Valley, WA

The trailer's graphics catches the eye and provides additional opportunities to demonstrate the farm's brand. The use of magnets for prices and other items provide flexibility between events throughout the event season.

The signs on top of the trailer, the stainless steel shelves, and other details are designed to be secure through travel and to ease set up for events. The trailer hitch is also removable so that it can be stored under the trailer when not in use. This reduces the overall trailer length as many events charge by booth size.
